TECHNOLOGY REVIEW

Scientific and Technical
Bimonthly Journal

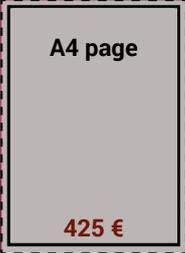

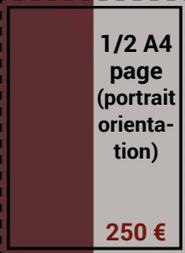

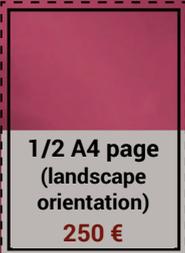

Advertisements and promotional articles in "Welding Technology Review" – a nationwide journal with wide reach – are an effective form of advertising reaching all those interested in welding-related issues.

The journal publishes color and black-and-white advertisements: on covers or inside the issue, as well as inserts provided by the advertiser, technical and informational articles, and information about industry-related scientific and technical events. The editorial office accepts the publication of advertising announcements and technical-informational articles. Prices for advertisements and promotional articles are negotiable.

Color advertising materials on the covers:
